

Livestock Management and Export

COURSE OVERVIEW

Livestock management and export requires strong business sense and a firm understanding of how farms and ranches operate. This course will expose participants to in-depth knowledge on the roles and responsibilities of livestock managers and how they can effectively manage and run profitable livestock businesses. Participants will also learn new approaches and techniques for livestock processing and export.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This course is designed for livestock farmers, agribusiness entrepreneurs, veterinary professionals, livestock export managers, and cooperative leaders involved in animal production and trade. It is also ideal for government and NGO personnel working in agricultural development, export promotion, and rural livelihoods, as well as individuals looking to enter or expand their presence in the livestock value chain and international markets.

COURSE OUTCOMES

Delegates will gain the knowledge and skills for:

- Packaging, safety and health requirements.
- Business principles on how these livestock products can be exported.
- Livestock Farm income and investment analysis.
- Livestock marketing and strategic ways to penetrate the market.
- Traditional farming practices.
- Disease Control and prevention.

KEY COURSE HIGHLIGHTS

At the end of the course, you will understand;

- Best practices in livestock production and management.
- Animal health, nutrition, and welfare standards.
- Breeding techniques and herd improvement strategies.
- Quality assurance and regulatory compliance for export.
- Export documentation and international trade requirements.
- Livestock value chain analysis and market access.
- Transport logistics and handling for live animal export.
- Risk management in livestock farming and trade.
- Case studies of successful livestock export operations.

All our courses are dual-certificate courses. At the end of the training, the delegates will receive two certificates.

1. A GTC end-of-course certificate
2. Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Certificate of completion with earned credits awarded