

Legal Frameworks for Multilateral and Donor-Funded Projects

COURSE OVERVIEW

Legal Frameworks for Multilateral and Donor-Funded Projects examines the laws, agreements, and institutional requirements that shape the governance and delivery of projects financed by international donors and multilateral agencies. Such projects operate under complex legal arrangements that balance local regulations, donor policies, procurement rules, and compliance standards. This course equips participants with the current knowledge and practical tools to interpret contractual obligations, manage risks, ensure accountability, and align project execution with donor and multilateral legal frameworks.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This program is designed for project leaders, legal advisors, contract managers, compliance officers, and procurement professionals working on multilateral or donor-funded initiatives. It is especially relevant for development practitioners, NGO staff, government agencies, and financial institutions involved in managing grants, loans, or technical assistance programs. Policy advisors, international consultants, and senior executives overseeing governance and accountability in donor-funded environments will also benefit from understanding how legal frameworks influence project design, delivery, and reporting.

COURSE OUTCOMES

Delegates will gain the skills and knowledge to:

- Explain the legal principles governing multilateral and donor-funded projects.
- Interpret procurement rules, financing agreements, and donor policies.
- Identify risks and liabilities associated with project contracts.
- Strengthen compliance with international and local regulatory requirements.
- Manage contractual relationships with multilateral agencies and donors.
- Apply dispute prevention and resolution mechanisms in donor contexts.
- Align legal frameworks with accountability and transparency standards.
- Learn from global case studies of donor-funded project governance.

KEY COURSE HIGHLIGHTS

At the end of the course, you will understand;

- Fundamental legal frameworks governing multilateral and donor-funded projects.
- Procurement and financing protocols required by international institutions.
- Tools for interpreting contracts and managing associated risks.
- Strategies to ensure compliance and uphold accountability standards.
- Mechanisms for preventing and resolving disputes effectively.
- Legal responsibilities related to transparency and reporting.
- Best practices in governance within donor-driven project settings.
- Case studies illustrating frameworks of international donor-funded projects.

All our courses are dual-certificate courses. At the end of the training, the delegates will receive two certificates.

1. A GTC end-of-course certificate
2. Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Certificate of completion with earned credits awarded